Pune, March 14, 2019: Extentia announced that Binu Moothedan will now lead the company's Salesforce Practice as the Vice President. He has been a key figure since the beginning of Extentia's association with Salesforce in 2011 and brings to the table years of IT experience in a range of technologies, platforms, languages, and business areas. In the new role, he will take on expanded responsibilities in growing the company's Salesforce partnership and will lead a 100-member center of excellence that possesses expertise in Force.com, as well as in a range of Salesforce products including Community Cloud, Service Cloud, Marketing Cloud, and Financial Services Cloud.

Devashish Nayak and Suhas Bhosale will be Delivery Managers for Engineering in other key changes announced by Extentia. Devashish Nayak will now play a more significant role in the SAP Practice at Extentia, in addition to providing strategic and technical thinking across technologies. Extentia builds solutions using a range of SAP technologies including the SAP Cloud Platform, SAP CX (formerly known as Hybris), SAP UI5, and ABAP. Suhas Bhosale will lead Extentia's Data Intelligence Practice and other digital technologies along with his existing engineering responsibilities.

The company has four development centres in India.
