

Extentia sets up development centre in Bengaluru

OUR BUREAU

BENGALURU, MARCH 30

Pune-based tech company Extentia has opened a development centre as part of its plans to expand in Bengaluru.

According to company executives, increased demand for the company's offerings related to mobile, cloud, and design services from existing and new clients led to the establishment of the Bengaluru centre.

The company did not specify its hiring plans but said that it employs 430 people overall. Also, many Extentia clients are based in Bengaluru and the new office enables the organisation to move closer to them as well, the executives said.

Umeed Kothavala, CEO, Extentia, said: 'Extentia looks forward to working even more closely with our partners and customers in Bengaluru, and extending relationships for the long-term.'

Submit Resume Now

Immediate Requirement. Sign up to Apply & Find Jobs monsterindia.com

Published on March 30, 2018

TOPICS

software

Previous Story

Huawei posts 28% rise in 2017 net profit

Next Story

East Coast, Texas employ highest number of H1B workers: Report

Get more of your favourite news delivered to your inbox

Email

Subscribe