Extentia and fivestar have entered into a partnership where each company brings decades of experience to offer Salesforce solutions to the US market. Both companies with over two decades of experience each, will offer solutions across clouds and domains.

Five star* has been designing cloud-based, data-driven technology solutions from the last 23 years to help organizations/client implement new technology.

"What makes this partnership particularly unique, is how aligned our organizations are in terms of delivering confidence through long-term solutions that address every facet of a customer's requirements," said Lou Camerlengo, President and Co-Founder, fivestar.

Extentia's focus, as a Salesforce Gold Consulting Partner and Product Development Partner (Specialist Navigator), is on Lightning-Ready App Exchange development, third-party integrations, Lightning Web Components, and Heroku implementations. fivestar* will leverage Extentia's Salesforce experience, their strong business analysis and customer relationship skills. Together, both companies will work closely with customers, to identify relevant opportunities, develop customized solutions, and offer solutions to Salesforce customers.

"Extentia and five star* have been collaborating for years," added Umeed Kothavala, CEO, Extentia Information Technology. "Having worked together on several projects, this partnership is a phenomenal next step in leveraging the combined expertise of our teams."
