Extentia and fivestar announced a unique partnership earlier this month where each company brings decades of experience respectively to bring compelling Salesforce solutions to the US market - across clouds and domains.

With over 23 years of experience, fivestar* is committed to growing and designing cloud-based, data-driven technology solutions that allow organizations to navigate the complexity of implementing new technology. Extentia, in turn, brings over two decades of experience working across different domains and a decade of core Salesforce expertise across various Salesforce clouds.

As a Salesforce Gold Consulting Partner, and Product Development Partner (Specialist Navigator), Extentia's focus is on Lightning-Ready AppExchange development, Third-party integrations, Lightning Web Components, and Heroku implementations. fivestar* will leverage Extentia's Salesforce experience and couple it with their strong business analysis and customer relationship skills.

Together, both companies will work closely to identify relevant opportunities, develop customized solutions, and offer powerful and compelling Salesforce solutions to customers.

Extentia's depth of experience in delivering solutions for non-for-profit space will add tremendous value to fivestar*'s existing relationships in this domain, as also in the education and workforce management space. fivestar* will also leverage Extentia's Financial Services Cloud team to offer high-impact Salesforce implementation services to financial organizations in the United States.

"What makes this partnership particularly unique, is how aligned our organizations are in terms of delivering confidence through long-term solutions that address every facet of a customer's requirements," said Lou Camerlengo, President and Co-Founder, fivestar*.

"Extentia and fivestar* have been collaborating for years," added Umeed Kothavala, CEO, Extentia Information Technology. "Having worked together on several projects, this partnership is a phenomenal next step in leveraging the combined expertise of our teams."
